THAT NEW LEAF.
If you have "turned over that new leaf" and really intend to "try and do better," practice a little of the economy you preach. First, don't throw money away. It is going that, if you pay more for your Books and Stationery at one place than you would for the same articles at another.
Why pay fifty cents for an article that you can buy for thirty-five cents? This is just the point you must consider if you really are successful in 1899 in saving your earnings. And this is just what the is doing every day for its customers.

DEATH OF PRINCESS TETUA
ALL TAHITI IN MOURNING FOR HER.
In Keeping With the Tahitian Tradition of Good Omen the Rain Fell During the Funeral.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 9.—The Tropic Bird was forty days coming here from Papeete and at times Captain Jackson used to wonder if he would ever make port. Light and baffling winds and calms were encountered from the start, and finally a fifty mile run came to be considered a good day's performance. Off the coast a heavy gale was encountered and for twenty-four hours the barkentine had a hard time of it. A number of sails were blown away and other damage was done that necessitated the vessel going on the drydock. She was put on the marine railway at Oakland creek and is receiving a thorough overhauling.
When the Tropic Bird left Papeete all Tahiti was mourning the death of the Princess Tetua Marama "the one whose power extends over the heavens," hereditary princess of the islands. She was the daughter of the Princess Arishau, whose authority extended over the island of Morea and a number of districts in Tahiti, and was born November 3, 1842. Princess Tetua was adopted by Queen Pomare, and when she grew up became a great power in the southern seas. At an early age she married a Scotchman named John Brander, and by whom she had nine children, all of whom are living. Brander was the head of the greatest commercial house in the southern seas, and since his death his children are carrying on the business.
Later the princess married George Darcie, and with him went to Scotland. While living there the Princess Kaulani of Hawaii was frequently their guest. By her second husband Princess Tetua had three children.
Commenting upon her death the Oceanic Francaise said: "By the people of her chieftom, she was simply idolized, and her influence was greater than the bounds of her authority. Her great trust in religion, the beauty of her own character and her widespread charity made her a power in the South Pacific. The rain fell in torrents during the funeral. This was in keeping with the Tahitian tradition that all official ceremonies are blessed only as the rain falls on them. In token of the public mourning the city (Papeete) flags were hoisted half mast high."

NEW BELL PULLS.
Fashion is nothing if not changeable and now has elected to return to the bell pulls of the past—they really are more artistic than the China knobs, which are generally employed as a means to "agitate the communicator." Hanging at some height on the wall, the five inch band, worked in some tasteful design, the edges of silk cord, and the back of the bell pull lined in silk of a suitable color, we have a decoration which is of utility also. Handsome, large, embossed brass rings, or those of ebony or ivory, are sewn to the lower end of the bell pull. This return to by gone fashion is noted because lovers of fancy work are constantly seeking something new on which to exercise their talents. No less are most persons glad to know of something novel when they desire to manufacture with their own hands a wedding gift, birthday present or a friendly offering of like character.

SUEZ CANAL.
As was only to be expected the number and tonnage of the vessels that passed through the Suez canal last year show a considerable decrease as compared with 1896, and a smaller falling off compared with 1895 and 1894, says the London Financial News. For one thing, the number of troops carried fell from 198,520 in 1896, and 118,635 in 1895, to 92,639, owing chiefly to the cessation of French and Italian military operations in Madagascar and Abyssinia, respectively, while the passengers tabulated as pilgrims, emigrants and convicts numbered only 14,443, against 31,055 in 1896.

The Great Medicine that Gives Nerve Strength
Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes the Blood Rich and Pure, Creates an Appetite and Restores Health, Vigor and Vitality.
"I feel that I ought to write a few words in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has done great things for me. I was in a delicate condition and was sick at my stomach and constipated. I tried remedies highly recommended for the weakness, but the medicines brought on other troubles. I was so weak I could not attend to my household duties, and I then determined to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After I had taken this medicine a short time I began to gain strength. I Grew Stronger Each Day
until I was able to work all day without any inconvenience. I have taken Hood's Pills for constipation, and I am better today than I have been for five years. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills I feel rested in the morning. I am less nervous and am sure I have richer and purer blood. I have always been bothered with scrofula, but now I am rid of it. Before my last child was born I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and my girl baby was fat and strong, while my other child was not well and lived to be only two years old." Mrs. E. E.
